THE WORLD'S FAIR GRAB

WILL PROBABLY PASS THE HOUSE,

The Anti-Option Elli Again Discussed in the Senate-Senator Carlisle's Tariff Speech-Capitol Notes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27 .- [Special,]-The final test of strength in the House on the World's Fair appropriation came to-day and the result surprised Mr. Holman and those who joined with him in strenuous efforts to defeat the five million donation. It seems that Mr. Holman entrusted the canvass of his strength to Bankhead and the latter was overconfident. He was satissled from his canvass that the opposition had votes enough to defeat the five million item. Holman moved to insist upon the disagreement and demanded the previous question. Bingham moved to concur in the Senate amendment and as that motion took precedence it had to be put first. On the square test the World's Fair showed ten majority in favor of the five million grab. Mr. Holman quickly changed his vote in order that he might move to reconsider, which he did. Then the fillbustering began. Outhwaite and Bailey taking the lead up may of Holman who could not with in piace of Holman, who could not with any sort of consistency filibuster against his

Now the question is, Shall the Sundry Ci vil bill pass or fail? Majorities of both Houses have declared in favor of the bill with the World's Fair appropriation, and it would be unprecedented for them to yield to the dictations of a minority of the House. Leading senators declare that that body will not consent to the striking out of the World's Fair appropriation, now that a majority of the House has voted for it. Senator Allison said to day that the Senate could and would reday that the Senate could and would remain here in seasion just as long as might be necessary to convince the Holmon minority that it could not win by filibustering. At present the indications are that the session will be prolonged for some days at least

THE FILIBUSTERING PLAN.

All sorts of rumors are heard as to the purpose of the opposition. Mr. Holman intimated this afternoon that he would be content with emphasizing the determined opposition to the appropriation, but Bailey, of Texas, declares that he will filibuster "till snow flies" rather than see the World's Fair item pass. In this he is supported by Outhwaite, of Ohio.

General St. Clair, chairman of the Legis-lative Committee of the World's Fair Commission, says the filibustering will be broken up by to-morrow. It is evident that some members who are strongly opposed to the five million loan are against the filibuster-ing scheme. That was demonstrated by the ballots this afternoon.

The Virginia and North Carolina members all voted against the World's Fair item.
Messrs. O'Ferrall, Tucker, Lawson and Lester were absent, but paired against the

Mr. Holman is playing a waiting game. He hopes that prolonging the fight will weary some of the supporters of the World's Fair so that they will leave the city and weary some of the supporters of the World's Fair so that they will leave the city and leave the House without a quorum. That is what he is playing for. The World's Fair managers understand his game and are pleading earnestly with their friends in the House to "stick it out." This really is the dangerous phase for the World's Fair. The members who support the supports the supports the supports of the control world's Fair. The members who support the appropriation have been remaining here for days, hoping each day that the next would end the fight. Some of them feel that their chances of re-election are being imperiled, and they may decide to sacrifice the World's Fair rather than themselves. Meantime Holman is trying to hold the opposition ready to take advantage should the ten World's Fair majority disappear.

WASHINGTON NOTES,

The general opinion is that the Senate this session. Senstor Wolcott, one of the most determined opponents of the bill, said this evening that there is no danger of its coming to a vote. As evidence of his confi-dence that the bill is defeated for the present session he said he was going away Senator Carlisle will on next Friday reply to the tariff speech of Senator Aldrich.

days to the preparation of this speech, and

Mr. Hiscock addressed the Senate so as to Anti-Option bill came up and the Bridge bill went over.

Mr. Coke (Dem., Texas) addressed the Senate against the Hatch bill as an abuse of the taxing power. He attacked the whole principle of this "nondescript" bill, hundreds of innocent people in the meshes of the law for simply attending to their own affairs in their own way. He closed by saying: "Men who rattle fare chips and play with loaded dice, clothed in purple and fine linen, who grow sleek and fat and rich, while the producer and laborer on the farm whose products are the stakes played for, are daily becoming poorer, when it is shown conclusively as has been proved to the Senate that their gambling devices are disturbing and unsettling the general commerce to the detri-ment of the great interests of the country, should be taken by the throat and sup-pressed by the uttermost means which can be exercised by Congress."

Mr. Mitchell (Rep. Ore.) defended the bill from the attacks which had been made upon its constitutionality as an exercise of the taxing power. He asserted that none of the decisions quoted from Justice Story and others limited Congress in the means it might rightly employ in providing by taxation for the payment of the nation's debt and for the common defense and welfare of the United States to the object alone of rais-

the United States to the object alone of raising revenue.

Mr. Palmer (Dem., Ill.) opposed the bill as an abuse of the taxing power and read sections from the statutes of Illinois in respect to bucket shops and the circulation of false reports for the purpose of cornering the market with which he said this bill came into conflict. He conceded that this law was not properly enforced in Illinois, but was it likely a Federal statute would be better enforced? Could Congress define and punish gambling in the States? No. Then, how could Congress by another method unw could Congress by another method undertake to do indirectly what it would be unconstitutional for it to attempt to do

Mr. Washburn (Minn.) suggested that an arrangement might be entered into by unanimous consent at some time-perhaps to-morrow-upon the bill and by amendments. White (La.) emphatically remarked

"I object."

Mr. Washburn then attempted to get the amendments he had offered to the bill adopted so that a new print could be ordered and the friends of the measure could see what it looked like.

The Chair (Mr. Chandler, N. H.), reminded him that the pending motion was to recommit the bill to the Judiciary Committee with instructions to report it next December, and Mr. Gorman suggested that the matter be left over until tomorrow, when the Senator (Mr. Wolcott) making the motion to recommit would be present.

Mr. Washburn assented to this course.

Mr. Chandler (N. H.) secured the passage of his bill to facilitate the enforcement of the immigration and contract

House of Representatives.

Mr. Dalzell (Rep., Pa.) rose to a question of personal privilege, stating that he had introduced a resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information regarding taxes paid by State banks, which was duly reterred to the Ways and Means Committee, which had not reported it within the customary ten days. He asked the adoption of the resolution by the House.

Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) said there was no disposition by the committee to pigeon-hole the resolution, but a quorum had not been obtained owing to the absence of Perublican magnificant. of Republican members.

Mr. Dalzell said he would ask for a vote in the House.

Mr. McMillin moved to lay the resolution on the table. Carried.

The World's Fair discussion was then resumed, Mr. Caruth (Dem., Ky.) being the first speaker. He said he would vote for the appropriation now (although he had op-posed it heretofore) principally for the reason that the differences between the World's Fair managers and the Knights of Labor had been settled. The Fair was not a Chicago enterprise, but a national one. pent up Utica" contracted its powers. His speech was characteristically laconic and he closed with the couplet:

"Little drops of wisdom, Great big chunks of gall, Makes the mighty statesman In the Congress Hall." [Loud Laughter.]

Mr. Bowers (Rep., Cal.) in a three-minute speech appealed to the House to make the appropriation for this "grand carnival of industry."

Mr. Honck (Dem., Ohio) favored the appropriation and was followed by Mr. Hop-kins (Rep., Ill.), who said there was an at-tempt to assassinate the national character of this enterprise and characterize it as a

Mr. McMillin (Dem., Tenn.) opposed the appropriation and said the treasury was in a depleted condition, and yet Congress was asked to vote $5,000,000 to Chicago in face when the selection of a site was before the House that no money would be asked. This closed the debate and the House proceeded to vote on the amendments. The House insisted on its disagreement to the Senate amendments increasing the appropriation for the Government exhibit from $316,500 to $500,000; that, increasing the appropriation for the World's Columbian Commission from $95,500 to $320,000; increasing the item for the board of lady managers from $86,000 to $138,000. The House also insisted upon the amendment that no Pinkerton detectives should be employed at the Grand Army of the Republic encampment.

The $5,000,000 item being reached, parliamentary discussion ensued as to the right to enumit amendments and Cheatham (colored Rep. N. C.) was unable to offer his amendment to devote $50,000 for collecting statistics of the colored race. Mr. Bank-head's (Dem., Ala.) amendment offered and admitted yesterday to appropriate $5 in lieu of five million was then submitted and the yeas and nays were called.

The vote resulted yeas, 77; nays, 141.

Mr. Holman then moved to insist on the disagreement to the Senate amendment. Mr. Bingham (Rep., Penn.) moved that the House recede from its disagreement. The pays and ayes were ordered on the latter motion. The voted resulted—yeas, There was great excitement when the vote was announced, and several members were on the floor at once to make filibustering motions.

Mr. Holman, who had changed his vote, moved to reconsider the last vote. Mr. Bingham moved to lay this motion on

Mr. Outhwaite moved to adjourn until Friday.

Mr. Bailey moved to amend by adjourning until Saturday.

The last motion was then put and was lost—no quorum—and Mr. Bingham demanded a call of the House.

A call of the House was ordered. A quorum answered to their names, and Mr. Bingham offered a resolution to revoke all structing the sergeant-at-arms to send for absentees. The resolution was adopted, and pending further filibustering the House ad-journed until to-morrow.

His last words were: "See that my death is and then his band began its work of revenge.

Wesley Sisier, who sided in the capture of the leader, was overpowered at his home in Haydentown and pinioned. His only child, atyoung girl, was then assaulted by members of the band. The helpless father's cries for help were stifled and his struggle for liberty ended by a blow from a musket butt. The band then departed, apparently selecting this mode of re-venge as of a more refined cruelty than yeuge as of a more renned crueity than physical punishment or death. The facts came to light vesterday from the sheriff, who arrested a man named Kankin, said to have succeeded Cooley as leader, for sheep stealing. A sheriff's posse will start in pur-suit of the band at once and lynching is threatened,

I said, "I want to see Freda once more."

And here she bust out crying again. OPPOSED BY THE DEFENSE. When General Peters asked that Alice be placed on the stand the defense made the objection that there was no precedent for such action. A hot argument ensued and General Wright made an eloquent plea to save the family from the humiliation of Alice making an exhibition of herself. The indge, however, ruled that she must go on the stand for examination.

The unaulmous opinion of the medical experts that Miss Mitchell is a victim of physical idiosyncrasy has created a profound sensa tion, and it is generally predicted that the defense will win upon this testimony alone.

A mid-wife named Bale and the husband of the dead woman, Frank Webb, were also placed under arrest charged with being implicated in the crime. The trio were arraigned to-day. It is said that McGonigle has for some time been traveling between New York and Chicago under an assumed name and disguised, to carry on his old business whenever mid-wife Bale had a job for him. PITTSBURG, PA., July 27 .- Unless one or the other of the Anarchists now confined in the Central station can be induced to make a confession it is very doubtful whether the police at this end can accomplish much more in the direction of unraveling the meshes of the conspiracy surrounding the attack upon the life of Chairman Frick, The imprisoned men, contrary to the general habits or practices of the element, have for once taken the precaution to cover their tracks behind them, and a thorough examination of the correspondence found in the rooms of Knold and Bauer develops the fact that not a scrap of it bears a date within the past six weeks. Yet it can be proved by the post-office officials that the mail of both men during the period has been much larger than for some time before.

LIST OF MILLIONAUERS POUND. The list of Pittsburg millionaires and their residence which was found among Bauer's papers will, it is thought prove an impor-tant piece of side evidence at the trial as indicating that they have had some sin-ister designs in view, which were directed against persons whose names had been recorded. Among these names are Mr. Frick, Henry Phipps, of Carnegie, Phipps & Co.; B. F. Jones and other big operators; Vandergrift, the oil man, and two women whose wealth exceeds a million. Bauer sullenly refuses to make any statement regarding the objects which led to the preparation of the list or the reason it happened to be in his possession.

The only suspicious facts connected with Herr Most are that he visited Knolds in this city at different times during the two weeks commencing June 27th; that he told Knolds that Bergman was coming here and that the latter, when he put in an ap-pearance at Knold's house said that the ad-dress had been given to him by Most.

THE ARREST OF SIMMONS. The arrest last night of Frederick Simmons, a prominent turner, for distributing anarchistic literature on the streets has no connection with the Russian end of the affair, but in the present excited state of the public mind the police regard it as necessary to make an example of him. He will be given a hearing next Tuesday for distribut-ing literature tending toward a breach of the peace.

New York, July 27.—The Herald says Hugh O'Donnell, the leader of the Home-stead strikers, was expected here to day to continue the negotiations with the Republi-can campaign captains, which were broken off last Wednesday, when he left this city to give himself up at Homestead. In speak-ing of the previous visit, the Herald says that while here he was seen in the street with John S. Clarkson and John E. Mil-holland and that the latter told O'Donnell that the Republican party leaders wanted to help settle the strike. Mr. Mil-holland thereupon offered several plans of compromise, which were, however, rejected, among them being a proposition to obtain the intercession of the President with Mr. Carnegie towards the acceptance of modified conditions. Notwithstanding, Mr. Milholland gave Mr. O'Donnell to un-derstand that the Republican leaders had determined to try and bring about a settle-
